Cherry has a passion for digital photography and have been making images with her camera now for many years and has never lost her enthusiasm. She loves being able to be in control of the whole process, composing the shot, taking the shot, post processing the shot and finally printing it. Its her attempt at being creative and artistic which gives her much enjoyment and fulfilment.

In this talk she has usesd charity shop vases, bottles and natural light, flowers and plants, both dead and fresh. Created in camera and digitally enhanced, sometimes with added texture, and backgrounds created with brushes to create shapes.
